We have been delinquent in not notice ng somera pleasant call we recently received from Judge Keith of this place and his youthful looking and handsome butter half'. We never could understand how some men could be so lucky, matrimonially speaking. Mrs. K. is still domiciled at Luling, but will remove here as soon as a sale of property there can be effected. Of course she could not but give our town the preference.

On one of our former frequent routes for riding, which has been intermitted of late, we passed on Sunday last the late residence of Judge Kone, which we found now to be occupied by Edward Kyle, Judge Cook, his father in law. having presented him with this handsome property. Mr. K. we noticed has already made some nice improvements either of whom is authorized to receive on the dwelling. On this occasion we and receipt for money, or attend to were presented, by his accomplished mother, to the beir of the Kyle-Cook houses, and a very promising repre-sentative we found him, indeed.

Judge Schmitt, of our Commission ers' coure, called on us this week. In conversation we learned with some surprise that he was one of the original New Braunfels and Fredericksburg colonists, having come over with his father in 1845. They had trying times at that day, the Judge said ; corn was $5 per bushel, flour $3 per lb, and a sufficient quantity could not be obtained even at those prices. The Judge PRANO'S BEAUTIFUL EASTER CARDS further informed us that he had seen it announced that there are 407 emigrants from Germany on their way to New Braunfels. They are of a well-to do class, and will be a great accession to our sister city. We think they might divide so good a thing with us.

Observations at Malone's.

Malone, of the Ismous "Cheap Store, Malone, of the lamous Cheap Store, is, as everybody knows, one of our most literal advertusers. When he fails to be represented in our columns, it is generally because the pressure of oustomers and business is such that he cannot find time to get up the matter. Such we tound to be the case this week; so he concluded to devolve the duty of getting concluded to devolve the duty of getting up his "copy" on us, and "turned us toose" in his establishment for a birds-eye view and brief record of what we thought worth, of note. Writing in great baste, just on the eve of going to press, our work will of course be rather imperient.

in general, first attracts our attention, and the separation of the various departments which has recently been perfected attracts inversible comment. Coming to details, and as an illustration of the resources of the establishment, we learned that it had just supplied a wed dir g outfit for the violety of Prairie Lea, and two others for this place. Others matrimonially minded will make a note of this. Among the piles of other attractive goods, we noticed a new style of gingham and handkerchief pat terns, very nice, at 15 cts. per yard.—The shoe department we found separated from the rest and hand-omely carpeted. The stock is large and complete—a full line of the genuine Philadelphia shoes guaranteed, at from foots to $1 under the market price—and full line of gallant but modestly blushing young gentlemen clerks in attendance at the trying to or clerks in attendance at the trying on or-deal.
